FOUR SONS READY FOR WAR SERVICE

Biglerville Family Makes Notable Contribution. All have been in Regular Army. York Springs, too.

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Sandoe, of Biglerville, are now members of the Regular Army, and within the past few days two other sons have gone to Mount Gretna to join the Governor's Troop, so that four boys of the one family are ready for immediate service along the border or in Mexico if needed.

Ralph Sandoe, their eldest son, bears an honorable discharge from the United States Army after serving with distinction in the Philippines. He is a pensioner, his service having impaired his health. He is now engaged in trucking near Biglerville.

Clayton Sandoe has a credit of seventeen years in the Army. Twice he was sent to the Philippines and he was also in Panama. He attained the rank of sergeant and qualified as a sharp shooter. He is now with his command at Fort Slocum, New York.

Luther Sandoe, the third son, served a three year enlistment, part of the time in Alaska, and later being at Fort Leavenworth and Plattsburg. When the call came last week for recruits to join the Pennsylvania militia he left at once for Harrisburg and Mt. Gretna and he was accepted as a member of the Governor's Troop.

Edgar C. Sandoe, the fourth son, is with the 4th Infantry and is located at Brownsville. He has been in the service for six years as a musician.

On Wednesday evening George Sandoe returned to his home from Lebanon and left again on the early train this morning to enlist with the Governor's Troop. If there are no vacancies there he will enter another command. He, too, has seen Regular Army service and bears an honorable discharge with excellence of credit, similar to those received by his brothers. He has qualified as a sharp shooter. During his enlistment he was stationed at Plattsburg.

The Sandoe family has had an honorable record for many years in providing men for the service of their country. George W. Sandoe, an uncle of these boys, and a brother of their father, was the first man to fall mortally wounded at the Battle of Gettysburg.

York Springs Contributes
York Springs boasts of three young army men all of whom are giving excellent service right in the midst of Mexico.

Lieutenant Raymond Pearson is a son of I. W. Pearson, of that town, and for some weeks has been about 100 miles below the border. Lieutenant Pearson is a dental surgeon and he has been assigned to Field Hospital No. 3, where he is helping to care for all the soldiers brought to that station. His location was Colonia du Blan, when he was last heard from, but the stirring times just now may have necessitated a change of base.

Robert Pearson is a son of Mrs. Margaret Pearson, also of York Springs and he, too, is in Mexico. The young man is with a cavalry command and has been below the border for several months where he has been actively engaged on many scouting expeditions in connection with the pursuit of Villa. Though he has been in the service only a few years he was recently promoted to the rank of sergeant and gives every promise of going right on up.

Myrl Asper, a son of J. H. Asper, residing in Huntingdon township, near York Springs, has been in the United States Army for several years and he, too, has been below the border for some weeks, going through all the hardships and privations with the rest of Uncle Sam's men.

Another One
Fred K. Walter, another Biglerville boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Walter, has made application for admission to the Governor's Troop but has not yet been notified whether or not he has been accepted.

WOULD CLOSE THE COUNTY PRISONS

Adams County's Men, Due for Jail Terms would Go to Central Farm. Plan now Urged by Lawyers of the State.

The practice of sentencing prisoners to terms in the Adams County jail will be abolished if the program of legislation, outlined by the committee of the Pennsylvania Bar Association in the Revision and Amendment of the Penal Laws, is carried out. The association is now in session at Bedford Springs.

Under the recommendation of the committee, all prisoners due for jail sentences in this county would be sent to a prison farm which would be one of six such institutions in the state. The report of the committee provides that all county jails be abolished, except as places of detention for those awaiting trial for criminal offenses; the establishment of six industrial farms, in various portions of the State, for county misdemeanants; and the employment and compensation of prisoners on these six farms, with a distribution of the income along the lines as now provided for inmates of penitentiaries and reformatories.

"The greatest difficulty encountered to-day, in all our penal institutions," says the Committee, "is idleness. It breeds discontent, saps the energy and will power, and destroys all initiative. It encourages disease and creates new crime. Therefore to employ the body and thus employ the mind is the remedy needed."

A review of the conditions in the county jails of the state reveals the following facts:

In 42 of the 70 county jails in Pennsylvania no work whatever is done by any of the inmates. They sit in absolute idleness.

In twelve of them goods for sale are produced, but in only five of these twelve is the legal allowance of employed prisoners utilized. In three of these five, more than 35 per cent were employed in producing goods for sale.

Twenty six institutions use some of their prisoners in other ways, but, generally speaking, idleness rules and a great economic force is wasted, to the cost of the citizens and the loss of manhood on the part of the prisoners.

"The county jail must be abolished," is the slogan of the committee. "Sixty seven counties", it says, "can find a more economic method of confining prisoners after sentence. The substitute is suggested in the establishment of six sectional farms, the counties of the state to be grouped, each contributing its share of expense and each benefiting by the return in goods manufactured, or actual cash received."

Attached to the report was an act for the carrying out of its recommendations, the establishing of the farms, and the details of their operation and control. Six districts, each of which shall have a state farm, are established.

Upon the passage of the act a commission of five members is to be appointed by the Governor, which shall select six sites for the farms of not more than 600 acres each.

Each farm or institution is to be conducted under the direction of five trustees to be appointed by the Governor.

FOR CAVALRY TROOP

Twenty Three Young Men have so Far Agreed to become Members.

Young men of Hagerstown are planning the formation of a cavalry troop, to go to the front in Mexico, in case war is declared and the call for volunteers is made. Each man entering is required to furnish his own mount, and it is stated that already about twenty three young men have promised to enlist, if the call is made. It is stated that Hancock has a number who will enlist in the company, and that some of the men will come from Fulton county, and a number from Berkeley county.

In case the company does go, it is stated that the captain will be a man from Hagerstown, who has been through a large portion of Mexico, and who has ridden the western plains as a cowboy.

DRANK IODINE

Hot Milk Saves Life of Huntingdon Township Man.

Thomas N. Cashman, of Huntingdon township, had a narrow escape from being poisoned one day recently when he swallowed a tablespoonful of iodine in mistake. During the night Mr. Cashman was seized with an attack of indigestion and arose and took a dose of what he thought was some medicine he kept on hand for that purpose. As soon as he had swallowed the dose Mr. Cashman realized that he had made a mistake and, upon examination, found that he had swallowed a tablespoonful of iodine. Mr. Cashman called his wife and as soon as possible she prepared some hot milk which he drank and which acted as an emetic and probably saved his life.

OXFORD IS READY FOR CELEBRATION

Eighteen Orders Accept Invitation to Take Part in Parade on Independence Day when Armory will be Dedicated.

New Oxford, June 29.—Plans are almost completed for the rousing demonstration to be held in connection with the dedication of the new armory of Theo. Pfeiffer Camp, No. 60, on the evening of the Fourth. The celebration will be more elaborate than originally proposed.

Thirty two invitations to civic and military orders were issued, and thus far eighteen favorable responses have been received by the enthusiastic Sons. Some societies invited have not responded but will likely be present. The following have signified their intention of being present:

Knights of Mystic Chain, Hanover. Major Jenkins Camp, S. of V., Hanover.

Major Jenkins G. A. R., Hanover. P. O. S. of A., East Berlin, with Band.

The line of march, the marshals, and the divisions, have not yet been decided upon. The parade will start promptly at 5 p. m. Immediately following the parade, the dedicatory exercises will be held at the armory.

Hon. Albert Johnson, of Washington, a native of Illinois, and a speaker of national reputation will deliver the address. Congressman Johnson is owner and publisher of the "Daily Washingtonian" at Hoquian. He is a member of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, and other patriotic societies. Congressman C. Wm. Beales, of Gettysburg, will be master of ceremonies.

BURGLAR SCARED

Twice Frightened away while Tampering with Windows.

Within the past week, two attempts at burglary in New Oxford, have been frustrated by the wakefulness of the occupants of the homes tried by the would-be burglars. About midnight A. A. Storm, proprietor of the Lincoln Way Restaurant, was awakened by the noise made by some one attempting to raise a window. The visitor was quickly frightened away.

Early Sunday morning, Ammon Bubb, telegraph operator, was awakened by some one tampering with a parlor window from the front porch. A nail substituted for a latch prevented the window from being raised. As in the former instance, the noise made by Mr. Bubb in getting to an upstairs window, "to repel the hostile invasion," as he terms it, scared the fellow away.

WILL RESUME WORK

County Brickyard Equipment to Change Hands in Short Time.

John S. Weaver, of New Oxford, has purchased from James A. Staub the good will and fixtures of the Staub Brothers' brick yard, situated at Berlin Junction. While the legal papers have not been drawn up, it is practically assured that the deal has been consummated. Mr. Weaver states that it is his intention to make some improvements to the plant, and start it in full operation just as soon as the yard can be put in proper condition. By the resumption of this yard, a large number of hands will be given employment; and Mr. Weaver will soon be in a position to offer steady positions to those who want them. The real estate has been leased from the Leo Staub heirs.

TO HELP FARMERS FIGHT THE PESTS

Orchard Men are to Assist Rural People in Combatting not only Fruit Diseases but Other Enemies as well. The Plan.

The state orchard inspectors have been given special instructions by Zoologist H. A. Surface, in regard to inspection for crop pests and the suppression of pests of all kinds of farm crops. They have been authorized by Secretary of Agriculture Charles E. Patton to inspect farm crops of various kinds as well as orchards, and the work hereafter will include not only suppression of pests in orchards, but also those of truck crops, gardens and farm crops. The official title of the inspectors under the Bureau of Zoology now becomes "Orchardist and Crop Pest Inspector."

These men have already given good service in aiding to suppress such pests as the army worm and tent caterpillar, and have recently turned their attention toward the cut worm and the white grub infestation, for which the chief work must be done in the fall, rather than in the spring.

The state orchardists and crop pest inspectors are now engaged in traveling from one township to another systematically throughout the State of Pennsylvania, giving service in the inspection of crops and the suppression of pests, and the work that must be done for the production of better fruits. It will take many months to cover the State in this manner, but the service is giving most excellent results, and will prove gratifying to all persons concerned. Announcements will be made by posters and otherwise as to when and where the orchardist and crop pest inspector will be temporarily located, in order that persons in the townships which he temporarily visits may communicate with him at once, and have him see their premises when needed.

U. S. SENTRIES ON JOB

Rumors of a Battle South of El Paso Stirred the Border Until Officers Denied It.

El Paso, June 29.—American occupation of Nogales, Sonora, loomed close when eight Mexican soldiers were driven back by a United States sentry post, as they tried to cross to the American side, at Nogales, Arizona.

The Mexicans withdrew and Major William Brooke ordered his men to "drop anybody you see acting suspiciously. If a shot comes from over there, we'll go straight across."

General Orsagary, Mexican commander, reached the line at Nogales soon after the shooting and asked for a conference. He said his men reported they had been fired on while well on their side of the boundary.

Brooke informed him he had positive information that this was not the case. The commandant then said he would punish any men who had violated orders not to cross to American soil. It developed that the sentry line had been extended westward because of a report that Mexicans would attempt a raid to drive off a large number of horses.

El Paso was agitated by the report of a battle at Villa Ahumada between Mexicans and Pershing's men, but there are no Americans near Villa Ahumada or within thirty miles west of Carrizal, according to an official message received by General Francisco Gonzalez, in Juarez.

Everything pointed to the complete retirement of the American forces that had been searching for the Carrizal survivors, he added. His report was based on an investigation by Carranza scouts.

Reports to General Funston at San Antonio from border commanders, contained no news of a clash other than that of the shots being exchanged by sentries at Nogales.

According to a wireless report from Pershing's headquarters, Carranzistas troops are appearing south of the American line, but at no point are they sufficiently close to cause fear of a clash.

This is the gist of a report taken to the headquarters by John C. Hays, manager of the Hearst ranch, one of the largest American-owned properties in Mexico. Hays had a large bunch of horses with him. He said he was leaving the property.

Cowboys of the Diamond A. and U. Bar ranches sent a courier to Hachita, N. M., with news that they had found a hot trail of the bandits who murdered the Parkers near Hachita, and were following it into Mexico. It was feared fresh complications may arise from the venture of the cowboys, as they probably are well into the interior by this time.

Six Mexicans were arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the Parker killing.

Couriers to Columbus, N. M., said that the entire region was being combed in an effort to discover some trace of the marauders.

FOOD ULTIMATUM TO SWISS

Germany Demands Exchange of Commodities With Switzerland.

Paris, June 29.—A Zurich despatch to the Matin says that Germany's demands on Switzerland for the exchange of commodities are in the form of an ultimatum, which expires at six o'clock tonight.

Announcement was made in the Swiss parliament last week that Germany had demanded that the Swiss permit the exportation of cotton and foodstuffs collected by German agents, stating that if the demand were not complied with Germany would prohibit exportation of coal, iron and other materials essential for Swiss industries. The Swiss authorities asked for time to reply and sent a delegation to Paris to confer with representatives of the entente allies.

Mexico Expects Spanish Mediation.

Mexico City, June 29.—Alejandro Padilla Bell, the new Spanish minister to Mexico, arrived in Vera Cruz and was received by high officials of the foreign office. Great political significance is attached to the coming of the new minister, as it is understood that he will offer the friendly mediation of Spain in an attempt to settle the disputes between the United States and Mexico.

Pardons Man Who Carried Bad Coin.

Washington, June 29.—President Wilson pardoned Thomas Wallace, who pleaded guilty in New York, in 1914 to possessing a counterfeit silver coin and who was sentenced to three years' imprisonment. Wallace has proved that he carried the coin as a pocket piece.

More on Way to Border.

Columbus, N. M., June 29.—Captain Lewis S. Morey, the only surviving officer of the Carrizal fight, is expected to arrive here on his way to the base hospital at Fort Bliss, El Paso, for treatment of the wound in his shoulder.

Don't Worry.

Fill your mind so full of good will and cheerfulness that no worry will have a chance to enter in. If some special care wants to seize you, set to work very hard doing some kind of nothing drives away thoughts of self and worry as quickly as kind acts done for others.

COLONEL W. C. BROWN

TRAMPLES FLAG AND IS FINED $25

Wife Calls Police When Husband Destroys Banner.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 29.—Accused by his wife of having torn down the American flag, ripped it into shreds and then to have trampled it beneath his feet, Michael J. Shea, aged forty-eight years, of 6397 Penn avenue, was ordered to pay a fine of $25 or go to jail for thirty days by Magistrate Wallace Borland, at the Frankstown avenue police station.

Mrs. Effie Shea, wife of the accused man, was the only witness against him. She testified that their two sons, William and John, are in camp at Mt. Gretna, the first named with Battery B and the other with the Eighteenth Infantry, and when they left home this week the father's wrath knew no bounds.

The wife said her husband seized a flag the soldier boys had left in the house, tore it up, threw it on the floor and trampled it. She called the police.

The police had to surround their prisoner to save him from harm at the hands of the spectators. He was lectured by the magistrate, who praised the action of the boys in enlisting.

PILLORY FOR WIFE BEATERS

Cruel Husbands to be Chained to Post in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., June 29.—The pillory, slightly changed, but the same in effect, is to be resurrected from the old Puritan days and set up again in Kansas City, Kansas. Wife beaters will find themselves its victims.

J. H. Brady, police judge of that city, procured permission to erect a post on a corner of the main business district, to which men convicted of beating their wives could be chained for any number of days the court fixed.

"The shame of being seen labeled as a wife-beater will prevent such crimes, I believe," the judge explained.

BIG ARMY MEAT ORDER

Chicago Will Furnish Monthly Supply of 1,500,000 Pounds.

Chicago, June 29.—Chicago packing houses have closed contracts with the army quartermaster here for a monthly supply of 1,500,000 pounds of meat for the army. It was learned.

Most of the meat is to be shipped to Fort Sam Houston and El Paso. Half a million pounds of corn beef, packed in two-pound cans, is to be sent at once to San Antonio, according to another order, and an order for 240,000 pounds of bacon as emergency rations, to be shipped to the border in crates, went to another stock yards firm.

Mrs. Daniels bade her sons do their duty in spite of the grief felt at parting.

ARMS ALSO ARE RESTORED

General Trevino, De Facto Commander, Sends Word That He Has Yielded to Wilson's Demand.

San Antonio, Tex., June 29.—Major General Frederick Funston received a report from Brigadier General George Bell, Jr., at El Paso, which said General Bell had been notified by Mexican Consul Garcia, at El Paso, that the twenty-three American prisoners taken at the Carrizal battle now are on the way north to Juarez.

According to the report Garcia had received word from General Jacinto Trevino, commanding at Chihuahua City, Mexico, that the American prisoners, with their arms and accoutrements, were to be delivered at once to the American authorities.

The report was forwarded immediately to Washington by General Funston. It gained interest from the report from Washington that the president had determined to use force and to lay the situation before congress, if the captives were not released.

Earlier El Paso had reported: "General Jacinto Trevino has ordered that the American prisoners interned in the penitentiary at Chihuahua City be taken to Juarez and there, with their arms and accoutrements, be released."

A despatch from Chihuahua City, still earlier, had said the American military prisoners interned in the Chihuahua penitentiary had been well treated and fed, and the two colored troopers who were slightly wounded were rapidly recovering, according to a report prepared there by British Consul Scofield, in response to a message from Ambassador Spring-Rice.

The prison is a modern concrete building, with two-story cells, each with modern sanitary equipment.

The Americans had the sole use of one special division, with a large yard for exercise. The prison director put his own son on duty in this ward, to look after the wants of the men. Foreign residents furnished comforts for the prisoners.

"If we can only get back to God's country we ain't going to leave there no more," was the way one colored trooper had expressed himself.

General Trevino has ordered Colonel Gonzalez Diaz to occupy Namiquipa as soon as the reported American evacuation is confirmed.

RUSH TO ENLIST UNDER T. R.

Hundreds Offer to Serve in Colonel Roosevelt's Division.

New York, June 29.—When Theodore Roosevelt arrived from Oyster Bay to fulfill his dinner engagement with Charles E. Hughes, the Republican presidential candidate, he found at his hotel hundreds of messages from men who want to serve under him in the division of volunteer troops which, it is reported, he is preparing to raise in event of war with Mexico.

The telegrams and letters came from all parts of the country and were so numerous that John McGrath, the colonel's secretary, had to get extra clerical help to handle them.

The colonel himself declined to discuss his reported plan to raise the division, which, it is said, he wished to head as major general.

500 Americans Being Brought to San Diego From West Coast.

Washington, June 29.—Five hundred American refugees from the west coast of Mexico are being brought north to San Diego, California, on the naval transport Buffalo and the supply ship Glacier.

In reporting this, Admiral Winslow said the Buffalo had most of the refugees aboard, having taken on her last contingent at Guaymas. He added that sixty-eight Americans in the Yaqui valley had refused to leave.

ASKS APOLOGY FOR PETROLITE ATTACK

"Was Insult to U. S. Flag," Austria is Told.

Washington, June 29.—The American rejoinder to Austria regarding the Austrian submarine attack on the American steamer Petro-lite, made public by the state department, describes the act as a "deliberate insult to the flag of the United States and an invasion of the rights of American citizens," and requests a prompt apology and payment of indemnity.

In vigorous language the communication sent a week ago makes it clear that the United States government believes the facts of the case entirely different from what the Austrian submarine commander reported them to be and that immediate amends are expected.

The Austrian claim that the Petro-lite's captain voluntarily gave up supplies taken from the steamer by the submarine commander is flatly contradicted, as are the claims that warning shots were fired across the Petro-lite's bow before she was shelled, and that her appearance was such as to justify the submarine commander in mistaking her for a cruiser.

The attack on the Petro-lite, a Standard Oil tanker, occurred in the Mediterranean December 5.

30 MONTHS FOR LIEBKNECHT

Socialist Leader Sentenced by Court Martial for May Day Demonstration.

Berlin, June 29.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, was sentenced, after trial by court-martial, to thirty months' penal servitude and dismissal from the army for attempted high treason, gross insubordination and resistance to the authorities.

Dr. Liebknecht, who is a member of the reichstag, was accused not only of taking part in, but of arranging, a May day demonstration, at which, it is alleged, cries of "Down with the war!" and "Down with the kaiser!" were raised by the excited demonstrators. A report on his arrest, made to the reichstag, asserted that he resisted the police, but finally was knocked down and overpowered.

PONIES WON IN GREAT RALLY

Seven Big Runs in Final Session of Wednesday's Game Make Record in Blue Ridge Circles for Last Minute Victories.

If the mayor of Hanover had issued a proclamation like that of Burgess Eicholtz regarding the use of fireworks before July 4th, nine Gettysburg base ball players would have spent last night in the German village bustle, for Plank and his Ponies sent off a display of pyrotechnics on McAllister Field yesterday afternoon such as the York County village has not seen for many a day. Incidentally Billy Starr's Raiders contributed a few sky rockets to the grand celebration, so that Chief Smeech and the other policeman would have had to summon out the full equipment of patrol wagons to accommodate all the guilty ones.

But to talk plain United States—Gettysburg won Wednesday's base ball game from Hanover by a wonderful ninth inning rally in which they scored seven runs, making the final score 7-3.

For eight innings the teams struggled along with the Raiders on the long end of the argument, largely through fast base running and some bad fielding judgment on the part of one or more Ponies. But this was all forgiven and forgotten in the ninth.

With the score 3-0 against us, Ira Plank came up to bat. The crowd was starting to leave but the doughty captain doesn't believe a game is over until the last man is out and he refused to bat until the chugging motors were removed from right field, his favorite spot to place a clean single.

All was finally adjusted to Ira's satisfaction and he immediately came through with the aforesaid single. Muff Oyler, who was put into the game after Seiffert was hurt in the sixth, laid down a bunt, and Billy Starr waited for it to roll foul, but it stayed in fair territory and both runners were safe. It was Baker's turn to bat but Sherman—tried and found true in other games—was called upon, Ira meanwhile telling Johnny Mumford to start warming up. Few there were who thought Johnny or anybody else would ever have to face Hanover again in that particular game. But listen.

Sherman sent a hot one to Caddin and was caught at first but his out advanced Plank and Oyler each a base. Durboraw was passed, the bases were full and only one out. Gussie Boyne slammed a rattler through short and Plank and Oyler tallied. Durboraw going to third and Boyne to second on the throw to the plate. Stein was up but whiffed at three and the 158 Gettysburg fans who had followed the team were about to despair when they suddenly realized that the pharmacist (Dr. Steinhouser Ph. G.) was starting for first base.

Georgie Stroh had dropped the third strike and was hesitating about throwing to first for Durboraw was threatening to dash home if he should attempt it. Georgie did the Brodie act and Rooney missed his throw which was wide, Durboraw crossing with the tying run. Boyne in a moment was on third and Stein went down to second.

Koehler got a nice little single and Boyne went in. Stein crossed the par for the fifth run when Herman rapped out a hot one, Koehler going to third and the captain to second. Bigler was up and hit to the infield, Koehler was playing off third to make a dash for the plate if they tried to catch Bigler at third, but the ball was played to Stroh and Artie found Herman just arrived at the third station. He was caught off the base, Pete meanwhile tearing down to second.

Then with two out and men on second and third Ira Plank, who started all this excitement, came to bat for the second time in the inning and came through with his second single in this session and his fourth in the game. Herman paced in and Bigler galloped after him. Oyler hit to Caddin who juggled the ball, but Mumford struck out and the joyous inning was over.

Hanover was easy in their half of the ninth. Stroh flied to Durboraw, Crowder struck out, and Kunkle bounded one to Boyne.

we had almost forgotten them. They got one in the first when Pownall drew a pass and went to third on Starr's bunt, scoring on a dandy squeeze with Spencer's assistance. The other two came in the sixth. Pownall again was passed, took second on Starr's bunt, and when Spencer hit to Herman, started for home.

Herman got the ball and saw an opportunity to get both batter and runner. He threw to Boyne, at the same time calling "Play it home", but the throw to first was wide and both were safe. Spencer was sacrificed to second and scored on Rooney's single.

Bunts
The Hanover rooters had a big time dividing their attention among Plank, Herman, and Sherman. All came in for their share of abuse but Cooney was the special mark. The hard hitting pitcher silenced them with his roller that helped along the big ninth inning rally.

Gussie Boyne was robbed twice. In the first Spencer made a remarkable one handed catch of his long one to deep left, and in the third Rooney stopped one with his bare hand which Gus hit along the first base line, when Plank was on third and Durboraw on second.

Spencer made a shoestring catch in the second, robbing Koehler of a hit. The bleachers' riding of Ira Plank was suddenly stopped in the third when Ira came through with the first of his quartet of singles.

Artie Herman had some mean misuses around the middle sack. The grandstand clapped him when he came to the players' box after his pair of errors in the seventh. Neither one of these misuses caused any trouble, for Baker had fanned Stroh and Crowder and Starr flied to Stein for the final out.

Pownall, twice passed as first man up, scored two runs. They claim that sixty per cent of the men who get on base with none out cross the plate.

Kunkle struck out Durboraw, Stein, Herman, and Bigler in the first two innings.

Herman made a wonderful running catch back of second in the fourth when Klunk sent out a high one that Plank couldn't reach. The bleachers manifested their approval with generous applause.

The lightning double play in the sixth Herman to Seiffert to Boyne brought the crowd to the applauding point.

In the seventh Bigler lined a wonderful triple into the left field automobiles. He was first man up but could not score, Plank popped to Caddin, Oyler struck out, and Durboraw fouled out after Baker was passed.

The ninth inning started with the score Hanover 4 hits, 3 runs; Gettysburg 5 hits, 0 runs. But, oh, how different when the ninth closed.

That youth Caddin, playing second for Hanover, is a wonder. He is only nineteen years old.

In the eighth after Boyne and Stein went out—both via Caddin to Rooney—Koehler and Herman hit safely, but Bigler hit to Caddin who touched second for the third out.

Hagerstown Herald: Gettysburg is drawing into the fold now and practically any of the teams could go in to the lead in two weeks' time. Gettysburg is looking about as good as the present as any of the other Blue Ridge clubs. From now until the end of the season, it will be up to the pitching staffs of the various clubs. Whichever club has the best pitchers will win out.

When Gettysburg came to bat in the ninth the Hanover bleacherites started to leave. "Stop", one of them called, "I've a hunch we're going to lose this game." The rest of the crowd made some uncomplimentary remarks about his pessimism but their derision soon turned to wonderment, and as the seventh run crossed, a Gettysburg rooter went up to him and solemnly said, "My man, you're a prophet."

SCOUT BIKERS

Wrote Plank that he Wanted to Get Back to Gettysburg.

Manager Plank received a letter on Wednesday from Bill Mahaffie, star catcher and fielder with the Gettysburg College team for the past four years, in which he said that he wanted to come back to Gettysburg. Plank telegraphed him to come at once and, provided Bill is not delayed in leaving his present job, near Pittsburgh, he should be here to-day.

Mahaffie is a dependable man in every respect. He hit over .450 during the spring season with the college team and is a steady player behind the bat as well as in the field. With him and Koehler Gettysburg will have by far the strongest pair of catchers in the Blue Ridge League.

CAUGHT BIG FISH

Large Bass is Taken from Creek near New Chester.

Eight Boy Scouts arrived in Gettysburg on Wednesday from Elverston, Chester County, having come the entire distance on their bicycles. They left Elverston Tuesday morning and spent the night in Wrightsville. They are camping near town, their tents and other equipment having been shipped here by freight. After a week's stay they will return by way of Carlisle, Harrisburg, and Lancaster.

WRITES DEATH RECORD

Condemned Man Apparently Shies at the Word "Died."

John Brown, colored, slayer of aged Mrs. Susan Dixon, who has less than twenty four hours to live, has made a record of his death on the wall of his cell in the jail at Hagerstown. Brown has scrawled across one side of his cell the following:

"John Brown di— June 30, 1916." He did not complete the word "died," for what reason it is not known. It is possible that he could not spell it, or the thought of death may have stayed his hand when he came to write the fatal word.

But there is no indication in Brown's demeanor that he is weakening as the time grows close for him to mount the gibbet and pay the penalty for his crime. He presents the same cool effrontery that marked his manner during his trial and since his incarceration.

Brown is said to have been very much annoyed over the failure of his brother-in-law to visit him and denounced him for his apparent indifference. Brown still talks about many things irrelevant to his situation and impending fate, to which he appears to be absolutely indifferent. It is expected that he will go to his death cool, smiling and with the same imperturbable spirit that he has always shown.

Everything is in readiness for the execution. The rope has been tested a number of times and all of the details arranged. The trap will be sprung by a lever, probably located on, or near the top of the platform.

GOOD MONTH

Western Maryland Breaks All its Former Records.

The report of earnings of the Western Maryland Railway company for May reveals the fact that the company's gross revenues exceeded $1,000,000 for a single month for the first time in the history of the road.

During the month the Western Maryland spent money liberally in maintaining its property, there being increases in the maintenance of equipment and maintenance of way items as compared with the same month of 1915. There was an increase of more than $50,000 in the transportation expenses, while miscellaneous expenses were $7,581 more than for last year.

The Western Maryland will break all records for gross revenues for the fiscal year which ends on Friday. The June statement, of course, will not be made public until next month, but it is intimated that it will be highly satisfactory.

AT PENN GROVE

Assembly Grounds Opened Two Weeks Earlier Than Other Years

With the opening of the Penn assembly grounds, June 17, a number of people occupied their cottages for the summer months. The opening was two weeks earlier than heretofore, and will give the tenants an opportunity to spend practically eight weeks on the grounds without an additional rental fee.

The advance engagement of cottages has been unusually large, it is said. Since the opening all Western Maryland railroad trains stop at the grounds on flag.

The assembly services will open Friday, July 28, to continue over a period of ten days. The Rev. J. R. Hutchinson, of New Cumberland, Cumberland county; the Rev. E. H. Hummelbaugh, of Frederick, and Adam E. Kehr, of Hanover, officials of the association, are preparing the program.

All the cottages have been repainted, while a new roof was placed on the tabernacle. Part of the money used in the improvements was raised among the cottagers a year ago.

BELLIGERENT BILL

Pitcher on Gettysburg's Squad Last Year again in Fracas.

Bill Stair was arrested the other day for "beating up" a fan who had accused him of "throwing a game" in Frostburg. Before the magistrate's court he was fined $10 and costs, in all about $22. The fan who was a jeweler of Frostburg, first preferred a charge of robbery and assault and battery with intent to kill. Some witnesses even told stories of Bill holding up his man with a gun and after robbing him, hammering him brutally. The evidence did not justify these accusations and the charge was lessened. Stair said he beat the fellow "over the head until his hand hurt" and made him stop.

Yesterday's Result

Several times on Wednesday the Ponies played for the batter rather than for the runner farther advanced. It almost proved fatal.

CHERRIES GO TO WASTE

Trees Loaded and it Does not Pay to Pick them.

Sour cherries by the bushels are going to waste in the county surrounding Waynesboro. The prices are so low that it does not pay the fruit growers to pick them. At Waynecastle, Franklin Miller, who has a number of trees loaded with cherries, is offering them at $1.00 per tree for all the cherries on it. Some trees have over four bushels on them—but everybody has cherries and there are no takers of Mr. Miller's offer, and the cherries are allowed to rot.

One fruit grower near Shady Grove has an orchard where the trees are so full of cherries that many limbs have snapped off on account of the excessive weight. Several neighbors bought several hundred quarts at one cent per quart, they doing the picking.

sent his overturned chair flying, then made for Hammon. But Jim seized him by the arm; Lorelei sprang in front of him.

"Mr. Whar—Bob," she cried. "You mustn't—for my sake." The three scuffled for an instant until Hammon said, more quietly:

"I couldn't fight with you, Bob—you're like my own son. But you've been sold out, and—look at it! It's been sold out, too. Now go home and sleep. I didn't come here to quarrel with you; I have a matter of my own to settle." He laid a hand on Bob's shoulder in an effort to pacify him, but the young man's indignation flared into life with drunken persistence.

It was Lorelei who at last prevailed upon her husband to leave peacefully, and she was about to accompany him when Lila Lynn checked her.

During this angry scene Lila Lynn had risen not spoken. Her eyes were very black and very brilliant against her pallor, and she was smiling derisively.

"Wait!" she interposed. "I'm not going to stay here with this old fool. Hammon grew purple; he ground his teeth.

"You shall stay. We're going to have a talk and settle things once for all."

Lila rose swiftly with a complete change of manner; she was smiling no longer; her face was sinister.

"Very well," she agreed. "Tonight. Why not? But I want Lorelei to stay and—hear. Yes."

"No, I don't want her."

"I do," Lila had temper flared up promptly from the hot coals of spiteful, drunken stubbornness. "She'll stay till you go, or else I'll put you out too. I don't trust you," she laughed disagreeably.

"Then have your way. It's you I want to talk with, anyhow, drunk as you are. Now, Bob—will you say goodnight?" He waved the two men from the room, and the outer door closed behind them.

Lorelei had little desire to remain as the witness to a distressing scene, but she seized upon the delay, for even a sordid lovers' quarrel was preferable to the caresses of a sudden bridegroom. But daylight seemed a long way off—she feared Bob would not fall asleep during this brief respite.

"Now come with me, if you please," Hammon turned in the direction of the library, and Lila followed, pausing to deaden herself with liquor as the others had done.

Jim and Lila were talking loudly when a key grated in the lock, the door of the little apartment opened, and Jarvis Hammon paused on the threshold, glowering.

Lila's wineglass shattered upon the floor.

"Jarvis! You frightened me," she cried.

"Evening, Mr. Hammon," Bob lurched to his feet, upsetting his chair. "This is a surprise."

Jim had risen likewise, but Hammon had eyes for no one except Lila.

"Ah! You're home again, finally. Where have you been?" he demanded, in a voice heavy with anger. His hostile tone, his threatening attitude brought an uncomfortable silence upon the hearers.

"Now, Jarvis," said the bridegroom, placatingly, steadying himself meanwhile with the aid of the table, "don't be a grouch. Everything's all right."

Lila remained motionless, staring defiantly. Her face had slowly whitened, and now its unpleasantness matched that of her elderly auditor. Hammon dropped his smoldering gaze to the half-empty glasses, then raised it, scowling at Jim.

"Humph! Who is this?"

Lila made her guest known. "Mr. Knight, Mr. Hammon. I believe you know Miss Knight."

"So you're the one," Hammon showed his teeth in a sardonic smile. "I'm the one what?" inquired Jim, with a sickly attempt at pleasantry.

"What does she see in you?" Hammon measured the young man with contemptuous curiosity.

"Don't be an ass, Jarvis," began Lila. "I—"

She was interrupted roughly. "That's precisely what I don't intend to be, and I don't intend that Bob shall be one, either!" He turned to young Wharton. "What are you doing here, my boy? I'm sorry to see you with these grafters." Hammon indicated Jim and Lorelei with a nod.

"What's that?" Bob stiffened. "Lorelei's my wife. 'S true, Jarvis."

"Wife?" Hammon took a heavy step forward. "Wife? You're drunk, Bob?"

"Praps. But we're mar—"

"So! You landed him, did you?" Hammon glared at the brother and sister.

"You got him drunk and married him, eh? And Lila helped you, I suppose. Fine! They're crooks, Bob, and they've made a fool of you."

Bob checked the speech on Lorelei's lips with an upraised hand, then said slowly, with a painful effort to sober himself: "We've been good friends, Jarvis; you're a kind of an uncle to me, but—you're a liar. You've lied about my wife, so I s'pose I've got to lick you." With a backward kick he sent his overturned chair flying, then made for Hammon. But Jim seized him by the arm; Lorelei sprang in front of him.

Lorelei had little desire to remain as the witness to a distressing scene, but she seized upon the delay, for even a sordid lovers' quarrel was preferable to the caresses of a sudden bridegroom. But daylight seemed a long way off—she feared Bob would not fall asleep during this brief respite.

"Now come with me, if you please," Hammon turned in the direction of the library, and Lila followed, pausing to deaden herself with liquor as the others had done.

Jim and Lila were talking loudly when a key grated in the lock, the door of the little apartment opened, and Jarvis Hammon paused on the threshold, glowering.

Lila's wineglass shattered upon the floor.

"Jarvis! You frightened me," she cried.

"Evening, Mr. Hammon," Bob lurched to his feet, upsetting his chair. "This is a surprise."

Jim had risen likewise, but Hammon had eyes for no one except Lila.

"Ah! You're home again, finally. Where have you been?" he demanded, in a voice heavy with anger. His hostile tone, his threatening attitude brought an uncomfortable silence upon the hearers.

"Now, Jarvis," said the bridegroom, placatingly, steadying himself meanwhile with the aid of the table, "don't be a grouch. Everything's all right."

Lila remained motionless, staring defiantly. Her face had slowly whitened, and now its unpleasantness matched that of her elderly auditor. Hammon dropped his smoldering gaze to the half-empty glasses, then raised it, scowling at Jim.

"Humph! Who is this?"

Lila made her guest known. "Mr. Knight, Mr. Hammon. I believe you know Miss Knight."

"So you're the one," Hammon showed his teeth in a sardonic smile. "I'm the one what?" inquired Jim, with a sickly attempt at pleasantry.

"What does she see in you?" Hammon measured the young man with contemptuous curiosity.

"What's that?" Bob stiffened. "Lorelei's my wife. 'S true, Jarvis."

"Wife?" Hammon took a heavy step forward. "Wife? You're drunk, Bob?"

"Praps. But we're mar—"

"So! You landed him, did you?" Hammon glared at the brother and sister.

"You got him drunk and married him, eh? And Lila helped you, I suppose. Fine! They're crooks, Bob, and they've made a fool of you."

Bob checked the speech on Lorelei's lips with an upraised hand, then said slowly, with a painful effort to sober himself: "We've been good friends, Jarvis; you're a kind of an uncle to me, but—you're a liar. You've lied about my wife, so I s'pose I've got to lick you." With a backward kick he sent his overturned chair flying, then made for Hammon. But Jim seized him by the arm; Lorelei sprang in front of him.

"Mr. Whar—Bob," she cried. "You mustn't—for my sake." The three scuffled for an instant until Hammon said, more quietly:

"I couldn't fight with you, Bob—you're like my own son. But you've been sold out, and—look at it! It's been sold out, too. Now go home and sleep. I didn't come here to quarrel with you; I have a matter of my own to settle." He laid a hand on Bob's shoulder in an effort to pacify him, but the young man's indignation flared into life with drunken persistence.

It was Lorelei who at last prevailed upon her husband to leave peacefully, and she was about to accompany him when Lila Lynn checked her.

During this angry scene Lila Lynn had risen not spoken. Her eyes were very black and very brilliant against her pallor, and she was smiling derisively.

"Wait!" she interposed. "I'm not going to stay here with this old fool. Hammon grew purple; he ground his teeth.

"You shall stay. We're going to have a talk and settle things once for all."

Lila rose swiftly with a complete change of manner; she was smiling no longer; her face was sinister.

"Very well," she agreed. "Tonight. Why not? But I want Lorelei to stay and—hear. Yes."

"No, I don't want her."

"I do," Lila had temper flared up promptly from the hot coals of spiteful, drunken stubbornness. "She'll stay till you go, or else I'll put you out too. I don't trust you," she laughed disagreeably.

"Then have your way. It's you I want to talk with, anyhow, drunk as you are. Now, Bob—will you say goodnight?" He waved the two men from the room, and the outer door closed behind them.

Lorelei had little desire to remain as the witness to a distressing scene, but she seized upon the delay, for even a sordid lovers' quarrel was preferable to the caresses of a sudden bridegroom. But daylight seemed a long way off—she feared Bob would not fall asleep during this brief respite.

"Now come with me, if you please," Hammon turned in the direction of the library, and Lila followed, pausing to deaden herself with liquor as the others had done.

BRITISH HAMMER GERMAN LINES

Berlin Sees Long Expected Allied
Drive on West Front.

FRENCH GAIN AT VERDUN

British Make Violent Artillery Attacks.
Germans Feel Strong, Steady Pressure
All Along Front.

London, June 29.—Despatches from the British front in France and Flanders lay emphasis upon the intensity of the bombardment which is being brought to bear upon the German lines.

The French are holding their own north of Verdun where continued German attacks in the Thiaumont and Fleury sectors were completely checked by the artillery and infantry fire of General Nivelle's forces, according to the bulletin from Paris.

A despatch from British headquarters in France says:

"British guns continue the bombardment over a broad front which was begun Sunday. The correspondent, riding seventy miles behind the lines, found the same regular pounding of position on both days, whether in the Somme region or along the Vimy ridge.

"Going to a point on high ground which allowed a broad sweep of vision in a rolling country, or forward to observation posts in the trenches, the correspondent found the horizon always pounded by shell bursts. There might be a lull at one point for a while, but soon the inferno in that direction was renewed.

"Under cover of the bombardment the British made numerous trench raids, bringing in groups of prisoners. The British released gas at certain points, but discontinued this when the weather was found to be unfavorable."

The intensified artillery activity on the British line is believed in Berlin to herald the long expected great British drive.

German military circles are calmly confident that Great Britain's great effort will meet the fate of the previous offensives, but there is keen interest to see Kitchener's new arm in action.

The general opinion is that a supreme test of strength between the British and German armies during the coming summer will mark the climax of the war. In the expectation of perhaps decisive military events on all fronts, peace talk has never been so dead as it is today, says the Berlin despatch.

The present British offensive is taking the form of steady pressure against the German line. Adopting the German methods, the British are pounding away at the German positions night and day with heavy artillery and no infantry attack is made until the way has been effectually prepared with shell fire.

French military critics warn the people not to expect any spectacular advance at the northern end of the line. It may be weeks, military men say, before the German lines break beneath the constant pounding of the French and British guns. Premier Briand, who has just returned to Paris from a visit to the headquarters of General Haig, the British commander, is deeply impressed with the preparations made for the drive, particularly the great amount of heavy artillery massed and the huge supplies of shells.

The French press and public are intensely interested in the simultaneous forward movement by the Italians and the Russians, and the current expression is assuming a tone of elation and confidence. The Temps, in its summing up of the military situation, says:

"It is now the turn of the Germans to be harried ceaselessly with the explosive shell. Today they are no longer the masters."

Four More Vessels Sent Down.

London, June 29.—Four vessels were announced at Lloyd's shipping agency as having been lost. They were: The Japanese steamship Daiyetsu and the Italian steamship Clara and the Italian ship Aventino, which were sunk by hostile warships and the Dutch steamship Waalstroom, which foundered. The crew of the Dutch vessel was landed.

Prison Board Bids Lowest on Tags.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 29.—The prison labor commission of Pennsylvania was low bidder for furnishing all automobile license tags of the state for 1917, when bids were opened at the state highway department. The bids were ordered scheduled and the award will be made later.

Tax-Grabber Sentenced.

Wilkes-Barre, June 29.—Proved guilty of withholding $5000 of Parsons borough taxes, Thomas Harris, tax collector of that municipality, was denied a new trial, and sentenced to three years in the Eastern Penitentiary.

Women Get Chance at Military Medal.

London, June 29.—King George has ordered that the military medal in future may be awarded to women who have shown bravery and devotion to duty under fire.

ITALIANS RAPIDLY REGAIN LOST GROUND

Force Austrians Back Three to Six Miles.

Rome, June 29.—Before the advance of the Italians the battered Austro-Hungarian army of invasion has now fallen back from three to six miles, and the retreat is still in full swing.

Fighting is extending all along the line, heavy bombardments taking place where the infantry is not engaged. Many Austro-Hungarian positions have been captured with the past twenty-four hours.

The war office announced the capture of Monte Giacomone, north of Fiume, and Monte Cavallo. These positions lie between Posina and Astico.

The Italians also advanced on the Asiago plateau, occupying the southern side of the Asa valley, and reached the slopes of Monte Rasta, Monte Interrotto and Monte Moselagh. Monte Colombara was carried, and the Italian advance reached the Galmarra valley.

Girl Shot Eight Times Recovering.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 29.—Although her lover, Elmer Deavens, put eight bullets into her breast, legs and arms, Miss Violet Maugans, aged sixteen, of this city, will recover. Deavens shot the girl because she told him another youth had taken his place in her heart. He emptied six shells of his revolver, reloading the gun and fired two more bullets into her and then left her home. The police have not caught him.

Healer Schlatter Escapes Law.

New York, June 29.—United States Commissioner Houghton refused to honor an extradition warrant calling for the removal from this city to California of Rev. Francis Schlatter and his secretary, Rev. August Algard, who are under indictment in Los Angeles on a charge of conspiring to use the mails to defraud persons sick, lame and blind. The two men were discharged.

Send Flour to Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., June 29.—Forty-eight thousand pounds of flour went across the border line into Mexico at Juarez. The consignment filled nine wagons, there being 7500 sacks in all. The flour was sold to the Carranzistas by an El Paso wholesale merchant. It is understood that it went over after Washington had been asked if there would be any objection to its delivery.

The Weather.

Forecast for this section: Fair today and tomorrow; light northerly winds.

Charming Little Bolero Frock

A likeable little frock of all-over embroidery with a bolero that may be opened either in the back or front. The design is suitable to development in other materials.

A wide range of materials is used in the development of children's frocks, but nothing exceeds in daintiness all-over embroidery if it is of good pattern. The machine embroideries come in alluring designs and are well within the average income. This little frock is made with a bolero and, for average size, requires 4½ yards 20-inch embroidery. The bolero can be closed at the back or front, the former being more desirable for embroidery and the latter for plain materials, since the edges may be scalloped and trimmed with buttonhole embroidery.

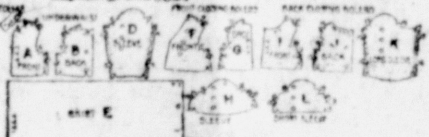

To make the dress, we begin with the underwaist, the underarm and shoulder seams of which are first closed as notched, after which the back is hemmed.

Next, close sleeve seams as notched, sew in armhole, small "o" perforation at shoulder seam.

The back seam of the skirt is next closed from large "O" perforation to lower edge, then the edges above finished for an opening. Gather upper edge of skirt between double "T" perforations. Sew to lower edge of underwaist, center-fronts and center-backs even, small "o" perforation at underarm seam.

To make the bolero, close underarm and shoulder seams as notched. If desired, slash front and back about ¾ inch above and below small "o" perforations and finishing for openings to pass a straight 1½ inch belt through.

Among the highly favored materials for children's dresses are white organdy, figured dimity, all-over embroidery, white lawn and white and colored poplin, many of the latter having feelings of strongly contrasting colors; for instance, white on blue and blue on white.

Small Girl's Compliment.

We had recently remodeled our home, making it into bungalow style, having a long, almost steep roof, with bungalow windows in it. A little girl came up to my husband one day and said to him: "My, you've made your house over, haven't you? It looks awfully cute. It looks just like a barn, doesn't it?"—Chicago Tribune.

Remove Temptation.

Little Eugene, aged three years, who is just beginning to learn he should not eat cake before his meal, was seated at the evening meal when all of a sudden he saw a cake on the buffet and remarked, "Oh, my dosh, taver up dat cake till I eat my tatoes."

A glance at the advertising in The Times will show that the farmer has learned its value.

He knows that for an investment of less than a dollar he can get a dozen customers for his horse or cow or whatever he has to sell. All he does is insert the advertisement and wait for the buyers.

The old method was to spend several days running over the country hunting a customer and annoying people who did not want to buy. He lost this time. And time is now worth money.

Aside from being a convenience, the small ad is a money saver.

NOTABLES IN THE LIMELIGHT

Li Yuan Hung, New President of Chinese Republic.

Li Yuan Hung, who succeeded the late Yuan Shih Kai as president of the Chinese republic, will hold office until October, 1917, when the five year term for which his predecessor was elected will expire.

The new president comes from the great mid-Yangtze province of Hupeh, where he was born fifty-two years ago of middle class parents of moderate means. He illustrates the motley official life of the Chinese in that he has been both a naval officer and a major in the army. A graduate of the Peking Naval college, he was stationed aboard a Chinese cruiser and saw service during the Japanese war. Later he took a course of military study in Japan, specializing in fortifications, and became a protege of Viceroy Chang Ching. He followed the latter to Wuchang, where as a pioneer in army reorganization he planned the maneuvers of 1903.

On the outbreak of the revolution at Wuchang in 1911 he was coerced into accepting command of the revolutionary forces, whose operations he directed. He figured prominently in the subsequent peace conference at Shanghai, and when Yuan Shih Kai loomed up as the only ultimate choice for president Li Yuan Hung was elected vice president as the most likely counterpoise to the ambitions of Yuan. He was also appointed chief of the general staff and advanced to the rank of general.

Li Yuan Hung is said not to be a dominating personality and is not expected to insist on those autocratic prerogatives which made Yuan's tenure of office incompatible with constitutionalism. It is generally believed that he will be president more after the French manner or after that of America.

German Fleet Commander.

Admiral Reinhardt Scheer, who commanded the German high seas fleet at the famous battle in the North sea, was a vice admiral when that great engagement took place. When the German fleet returned to its station Emperor William promoted Scheer to the rank of full admiral as a reward for his service.

ADMIRAL REINHARDT SCHEER.

Last February Admiral Scheer was appointed to the temporary command of the fleet when the late Admiral von Pohl, who had held the post for a year was forced to retire because of illness. Scheer's appointment was only made permanent a few days before the battle of the Skagerrak.

The new fleet commander is considered one of the most skillful tacticians in the German navy and is also noted as an officer not only of forcefulness, but of ideas. For a long time he was employed as director of the general marine department at the admiralty and has held command in the active service as chief of staff of the high seas fleet and as commander of a battle squadron.
